THE MONADNOCK REGION

The Contoocook Valley School District (ConVal) is located in the Monadnock Region of Southwestern New Hampshire. The area offers a well-crafted balance between natural beauty, a diverse economy, and cultural opportunities.

Peterborough is home to New Hampshire Ball Bearings (NHBB), a leading manufacturer of precision bearings for the aerospace, defense, medical/dental, and high technology markets; SoClean, the manufacturer of automated cleaning equipment for continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) therapy apparatuses; and Microspec, a medical equipment manufacturer specializing in custom medical tubing with tight and complex specifications.

Peterborough is also the home of the MacDowell Colony, a designated National Historic Landmark and America's oldest continuously operating artists' colony for visual and interdisciplinary artists, architects, filmmakers, composers, playwrights, poets, and writers. The Peterborough Players is one of the oldest summer stock companies in the country with professional theatre productions held in a converted 18th-century barn at historic Stearns Farm.

The Old Farmer's Almanac and Yankee Magazine are published in Dublin, one of ConVal's member towns. The Harris Center for Conservation Education, located in Hancock, promotes protection and stewardship of the region's natural resources, and conservation research.

Education is an important part of life in our communities. Post-secondary institutions include Keene State College and Antioch New England Graduate School, both located in Keene, as well as Franklin Pierce University in Rindge.

Mount Monadnock, located just southwest of Peterborough, draws hikers from all over the country and is one of the most-climbed mountains in the world. It is an inspiration to artists and writers. The region is crisscrossed with hiking, biking, and ski trails, and dotted with lakes for boating, fishing, and swimming.
